About Heifer International

In 1944, Heifer International's founder, Dan West, began outlining a simple but groundbreaking plan to tackle hunger around the world. West, a farmer from the Midwest and Church of the Brethren member, had recently returned from feeding weary refugees during volunteer service in the Spanish Civil War.

He had seen firsthand that giving people food was a short-term solution, whereas providing them with animals offered a steady supply of nutritious food for an entire family. His philosophy still inspires Heifer's work today. Partnering with farmers across a range of different livestock and crops, we create unique solutions to local challenges.

Today, Heifer International has operations in 19 countries around the world, working alongside local farmers, business owners, and their communities, as they mobilize and envision their futures. Together, we build inclusive, resilient economies, so communities can develop effective ways to end global hunger and poverty in a sustainable way.

Scope of Work

The Heifer International Asia regional team is in the process of revisiting current programs in Asia to align them with Heifer's new program model. We are actively seeking an expert consultant who can support designing signature programs focused on transformed food systems for smallholder farmers, with a focus on animal agriculture and caring for the Earth.

Heifer's Program Model centers on smallholder farmers as leaders. We implement our programs to create resilient, inclusive, and sustainable food systems. The model prioritizes local leadership, equity, and environmental stewardship, ensuring programs are context-specific and community-driven. Our efforts strengthen farmer groups, promote sustainable practices, improve access to inclusive markets and finance, and support enabling policies. This strategic approach, enhanced by strong partnerships and innovation, creates a lasting impact for farming communities worldwide
